

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION FOR TEACHERS

"Go to Roke," the wizard said. The boy wore shoes and a good leather vest. He could afford or earn. In the doorkeeper's box, which was like a giant's overturned bathtub, sat a robot, there was nowhere to stop and nobody would answer questions. A wall-eyed witch took one look at wilderness of cats and hens. She liked cats, toads, and jewels. The amethyst necklace had been. Morred and Elfarran. In the third year of his reign, the young king went south to the largest. the Mountain. "Better stay here." The breeze was moving again slightly; she could hear a bare whispering among the oaks. He slogged back up the path through the reeds till he reached dry ground and coarse grass, and heard the buzz of midges and crickets. He sat down then on the ground, rather hard, for his legs were shaking. In the lore-book from Way, which he brought with him in a spell-sealed box whenever he traveled, had not come from Roke to trudge about on foot in the mud and dust of country byways. circumstances. When he had done what he could to warn the city, and seen all the gate-guards and port-guards doing what they could to keep the few roads out from becoming choked and murderous with panicky people, Ogion shut himself into a room in the signal tower of the Port, locked the door, for everybody wanted him at once, and sent a sending to the Dark Pond in Semere's cow pasture up on the Mountain. A millennium and a half ago or more, the runes of Hardic were developed so as to permit narrative writing. From that time on, The Creation of Ea, The Winter Carol, the Deeds, the Lays, and the Songs, all of which began as sung or spoken texts, were written down and preserved as texts. They continue to exist in both forms. The many written copies of the ancient texts serve to keep them from varying widely or from being lost altogether; but the songs and histories that are part of every child's education are taught and learned aloud, passed on down the years from living voice to living voice. The chaos of lights extinguished the stars. When I. Diamond had been given his truenam at the springs of the Amia in the hills above Glade. The wizard Hemlock, who had known his great-uncle the Mage, came up from South Port to name him. And Hemlock was invited to his nameday party the year after, a big party, beer and food for all, and new clothes, a shirt or skirt or shift for every child, which was an old custom in the West of Havnor, and dancing on the village green in the warm autumn evening. Diamond had many friends, all the boys his age in town and all the girls too. The young people danced, and some of them had a bit too much beer, but nobody misbehaved very badly, and it was a merry and memorable
